

THE RANDOLPH CENTRE FOR THE ARTS AND SOUNDSTREAMS JOIN THE BLOOR ST. CULTURE CORRIDOR BRINGING TO TOTAL TO 19 ARTS & CULTURE ORGANIZATIONS

TORONTO, Canada (November 9, 2015): The Bloor St. Culture Corridor, Toronto's most diverse arts and culture district, is delighted to announce that The Randolph Centre for the Arts and Soundstreams have become associates of the Bloor St Culture Corridor. They join seventeen other organizations, to bring the total to 19 arts and culture organizations that come together in collaboration as the Bloor St. Culture Corridor.

Bloor St. Culture Corridor organizations come together to create the Bloor St. Culture Corridor in collaboration. The Bloor St. Culture Corridor offers the public a wide variety of arts experiences, from museums to films, art exhibitions to music concerts, and opportunities to experience some of Toronto's cultural diversity, including French, Jewish, Italian, Japanese, Estonian, and Aboriginal arts and culture. More than 150 exhibitions and events take place on the Bloor St. Culture Corridor every month.

The Randolph Centre for the Arts includes the historic Randolph Theatre (formerly the Bathurst Street Theatre), the intimate Annex Theatre, and several Studios, where you can see a range of theatre and music performances. It is also home to the Randolph Academy for the Performing Arts, Canada's first Triple Threat® training institution for professional performers.

Soundstreams is one of the world's leading contemporary music companies, and the biggest global presenter of new Canadian music. The company showcases the work of living Canadian and international composers, with a focus on innovative thematic and experiential programming that provides context and contributes to the rich legacy of Canadian music at home and around the world.

Bloor St. Culture Corridor partner destinations include:
